

HDGH

HUBERT DEPARTMENT OF GLOBAL HEALTH

The Hubert Department of Global Health (HDGH) offers an ideal opportunity for students passionate about learning public health through a global lens. Collaboration is a key component to our program. Our diverse faculty and students work closely with local and international organizations including the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), CARE International, and The Carter Center to reduce public health inequities and improve public health around the world.

My work now is at the intersection of nutrition, reproductive health, and human rights to optimize outcomes in the next generation.

Usha Ramakrishnan, PhD, Professor and Chair

Apply by the January 5 priority deadline for MPH scholarship consideration

HDGH DEGREES

- MPH in Global Health
- Accelerated MPH in Global Health, 12-month format
- PhD in Global Health and Development
- PhD in Nutrition and Health Sciences

